CUPID OUTWITS FATHER AT LAST

John E. Laramore and Miss Ruby Hazel Gregory Married in Covington, Ky.

LICENSE WAS REFUSED HERE

Because J. W. Laramore Had Telephoned That His Son Was Only 19 Years Old.

After trying to get a marriage license in Rush county and failing because the young man was only nineteen years old and his father objected, John E. Laramore and Miss Ruby Hazel Gregory were married yesterday at Covington, Ky. The young man gave his age as twenty-one, although about two weeks ago he admitted that he was only nineteen.

A short time ago a couple entered the clerk's office and asked for a marriage license. The deputy clerk began asking questions. Unfortunately the first one he asked was the would-be benedict's name. It sounded familiar to him. He had heard it before some time. He looked in the drawer which puts the muffler on the "wedding bells." Sure enough there it was—John E. Laramore.

"How old are you?" he asked of the applicant.

"Why I am twenty-one," replied the young man.

"Well, your father telephoned us that you were only nineteen," replied the deputy clerk, as he began putting the blanks back in the drawer. The young man saw it was no use, so he admitted that he was a minor.

"Oh we didn't want to get married anyway, did we?" he said to the girl.

Either she was not in the humor to be congenial about the question or else she had a different opinion. Anyway she didn't agree with him. She looked defiance at the clerk and said: "Oh well, I guess we can get married in Kentucky all right."

And it seems that her guesses were right for they were married there yesterday. The record there shows that John E. Laramore and Ruby Hazel Gregory, each twenty-one years old, were married yesterday by the Rev. Carlisle.

The young people were seen in this city together yesterday morning and it is supposed that they went to Cincinnati on the 9:03 train and went directly to Covington where they were married.

The father, John W. Laramore, who lives west of this city has objected to the wedding because he said his son was too young to get married. He telephoned the county clerk about six months ago to refuse his son a license if he ever applied, and at that time he had heard that the young man had the matrimonial bee buzzing in his ear. It is not known what the father will do now that cupid has outwitted him. Young Laramore is employed on a farm west of this city.

CEMETERY BRIDGES NOW BEING BUILT

Force of Men at Work in East Hill—Construction to be Completed by November 1.

IS ORNAMENTAL AND USEFUL

A force of men are at work in East Hill cemetery building the rustic bridges which were contracted for by the cemetery company several months ago. The work is being done by the Hackedorn contracting company of Indianapolis. The plans show that the bridges will be beautiful structures and will also be stationary and lasting. They are to be built over the lagoon passing through the west side of the cemetery and will be constructed with a rustic effect. It will take several months to complete the work as the contractors have stated that they will not be finished before the first of November.

The structures will not be only useful, but also ornamental as the bridges crossing the stream from the north to the south side will be much in use. There are only a dozen lots remaining on the north side and not many months will elapse before all of the burying will take place on the south side.

GRAND JURY GETS IN ITS FIRST WORK

Returns Four Indictments and Adjourns Until Thursday of Next Week.

AFFIDAVITS ARE NOT SERVED

The grand jury got in its work today and four indictments were returned. The warrants have not been served, however, and it is not known who the persons indicted are, nor for what offense they are indicted. Prosecutor Cheney of Shelbyville was here today, and held a conference with Deputy Wallace Morgan. After returning the four indictments the grand jury adjourned until next Thursday, when the other work will probably be closed up and final adjournment taken. It is understood that several more indictments to the ones handed in today will be returned.

GEO. H. CALDWELL GIVES UP BATTLE

County Treasurer is Dead After Lingering on the Borders For Many Days.

WAS VETERAN OF TWO WARS

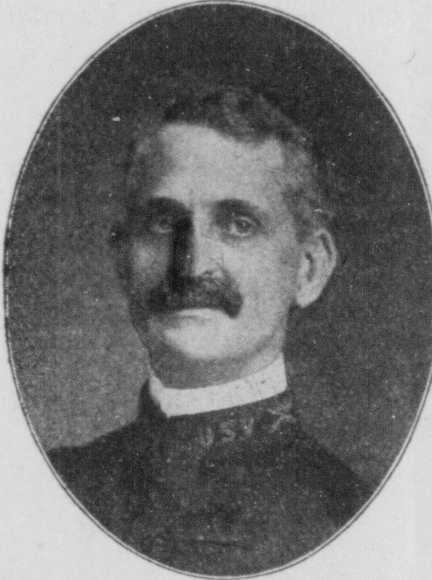

Second Lieutenant in the Spanish-American and First Lieutenant in Philippine Conflict.

George H. Caldwell, veteran of the Philippine and Spanish-American wars, county treasurer, and captain of Ivy Company No. 35 Uniform Rank, died at his home in East Eighth street this morning at 2:15 o'clock of cancer. He was conscious until the last minute of his life on earth and understood all that was said to him, but was unable to talk. He was a member of the Main Street Christian church.

Although the death of Mr. Caldwell has been expected hourly for several days and he has been in poor health for over a year, his demise was a heavy shock to his many friends and relatives. Since last spring he had been unable to attend to his duties in the county treasurer's office and the responsibility has been shifted to the shoulders of his deputy, Walter Newhouse. He was able to be out of his home only a very few times during the summer months and most of the time was bedfast.

Mr. Caldwell was born in this city in West Third street in 1853, shortly after his father was elected county sheriff. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Caldwell, who are now both dead. They spent most of their life in this county and raised their large family of seven children on the old Caldwell homestead in Jackson township. They moved back to their country home about a year after their son George was born.

George was the youngest of the sons and spent his boyhood days on the farm. About the time that he became of age he came to this city and began work in the W. C. Mauzy store as a clerk. He clerked in several other stores during his younger days, including a few years work for his brother Alfred, who was then interested in the dry goods store of Caldwell & Jones. He later became very proficient in the dry goods business and went on the road as a traveling salesman for a large firm. He represented several large houses on the road in the next few years.

When the Spanish-American war opened he was among the first to enlist in the company which was organized here. The company was captained by J. M. Gwinn and Mr. Caldwell started in the service as sergeant. Company H of the 161st regiment, which was the company organized here, was taken to the heart of the fray in Cuba, but never saw any active service although they were there for nearly four months. During this time John F. Joyce, who was second lieutenant of the company, became sick and was forced to quit the service and Ser-

WHAT FACTORIES MEAN TO A CITY

Spend Much of Their Money at Home and Managers Are Public Spirited.

CITIZENS AS GOOD SALESMEN

Work Progressing Nicely Here—More Visitors Pay Respects at the Y. M. C. C. Headquarters.

The statement made by Col. James M. Woods relative to the prospect for a large supply of natural gas in Rush county was much commented upon by citizens generally. Inasmuch as the theory agrees with that generally adopted by geologists, including State Geologist Blatchley, there is great prospect that many further explorations will be made provided that the opinion of Col. Wood is pretty uniformly confirmed among those experienced in gas development.

The Republican today presents an illustration of the manner in which a factory draws money from all parts of the country and becomes the distributor of such money in the community wherein it operates. The mercantile industry—the store—buys its goods as they come from factories in various parts of the country and receives the money from the sales thereof at home. The factory draws money from the sale of its products from all parts of the country. Its expenditures are mainly paid out at home.

If manufacturers sometimes evince less public spirit than people in other lines it is because, in a business way, they feel more independent of their local communities. Yet, in the generality of instances they have shown their interest in the development of their home cities. In a measure, they are likewise dependent upon the good will of the people of the community wherein they operate.

"No man liveth to himself alone." Manufacturers frequently have to ask favors of the people of the community wherein they operate. Where one has shown his interest in the up-building of the town these favors are the more readily granted than in instances where such one has placed himself in the unwise position of hostility or indifference.

To say nothing of the requests sometimes made for municipal favors, the good opinion and good words spoken by one's neighbors, of a firm or its products often have a far reaching effect. The American people are a nation of travelers. Neighbors have a capacity to boost such products or to refrain from so doing if they choose.

Products and prices being equally advantageous, the local factory product should be preferred by the people of that community. The finished product of one is often the working material of another factory.

The average citizen of New Castle traveling in other communities, almost uniformly, when kitchen cabinets are mentioned, say: "No better is made anywhere than that which is made in New Castle." When pianos are mentioned, the New Castle man or woman exploits the merits of the Krell-French. One of the members of the Maxwell-Briscoe Automobile company was asked why they located that big factory in New Castle when more money was offered for the location from several other Indiana cities. He answered substantially this: "I have traveled extensively and I have never seen a town with more public spirit among the citizens than in New Castle."

This condition has existed in New Castle comparatively a few years. A few years ago the people were seemingly well satisfied to have a good

E. W. BALL IS NEW CITY CHAIRMAN

Bert Mullin Named Secretary and Earl Payne Treasurer For the Coming Campaign.

CONVENTION ON OCTOBER 12

Ward Meetings to Select Delegates Are Set For October 8 in Court House.

Ephraim W. Ball is the new city chairman of the Republican party. This announcement was made today and along with it came the announcement that Bert Mullin had been elected secretary and Earl Payne, treasurer of the organization. All these selections are popular with Republicans in the city and the precinct committeemen who did their work with considerable care and deliberation are being complimented. The younger men are taking much interest in this campaign and it is believed that the infusion of younger blood into the active work of the party will be a good thing and put more vim into the work. The older heads are pleased to see that the young men are taking an interest and say that it only points to the fact that the Republican party is a party for young men.

The meeting to select delegates for the city convention will be held October 8, and the city convention is set for October 12. Between now and then the candidates expect to get in some good hard fights. The meeting for the selection of delegates will be held in the court house, the three wards holding separate sessions. The first ward will meet in the county superintendent's office, and will choose 24 delegates. The Second ward will hold forth in the sheriff's office and is entitled to 18 delegates. The meeting place for the third ward is in the assembly room and it is entitled to 31 delegates. The total number of delegates to be chosen is 73 and alternates will be chosen for these.

At these ward meetings one councilman will be nominated for each ward. At the general convention to be held in the assembly room at the court house October 12 at 7:30 p. m. candidates will be nominated for the offices of mayor, city clerk and city treasurer. Two councilmen-at-large will also be nominated at this general convention.

Lesson XIII.—Third Quarter. For
Sept. 26, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Cor. x, 23-33.
Memory Verse, 24—Golden Text,
Rom. xv, 2—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This epistle is divided into several sections, beginning with the words "Now, concerning," or "Now, as touching" (vii, 1; viii, 1; xii, 1; xvi, 1), and our lesson is in the portion which begins with viii, 1. "Now, as touching, things offered unto idols." While recognizing that our idol is nothing and that meat commendeth us not to God, yet he says, "If meat make my brother to offend I will eat no flesh while the world standeth lest I make my brother to offend" (viii, 13). Whatever he did or refrained from doing it was for the gospel's sake lest the gospel of Christ should be hindered and that he might by all means save some (ix, 12, 22, 23). Referring to some events in the history of Israel, he says that all these things happened to them for our examples and admonition, and he reminds us that God is faithful, who will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able (x, 11-13). He would have us know that all our life is either unto God or the devil and that, while we may lawfully do certain things, we must not come under the power of anything or any one but the Lord alone (vi, 12; x, 23).

God having made us so rich in Christ that all things are ours, things present and things to come (iii, 21-23), we are not here to seek anything for ourselves, but only the welfare of others that they, too, may be saved and have the same riches in Christ and then go out to seek others (x, 33). Love seeketh not her own, and He who was God manifest in the flesh never lived to please Himself nor to seek His own will or glory in anything (xiii, 5; Rom. xv, 3; John v, 30; vi, 38; viii, 50). Paul had to write to the Philippians, "All seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's." "Many walk, of whom I have told you often and now tell you even weeping that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ, whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things" (Phil. ii, 21; iii, 18, 19).

The twice repeated saying in verses 26, 28, "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof," is from the psalm which speaks of those with clean hands and pure hearts who seek the God of Jacob and open wide the gates to the King of Glory. When He is on the throne of our hearts we will not be heard asking silly questions about what we may eat or not eat, nor will we bow down to any idols within or without, but the one supreme thought will always be to please Him, to honor Him, to magnify Him, so that others may want to know Him to whom we have by His grace become so devoted. When we become thus spirit filled, drunken with the new wine of the kingdom, filled with joy and peace by believing, some will be drawn away from the beastly drunkenness of earthly things to the love that is better than wine, for which so many souls are longing all unconsciously. Is it not because the poor worldling sees nothing in professing Christians that can begin to compare with his "pleasures of sin for a season" that he holds on to his evil ways? The God of this world, under whose control the children of disobedience live, says to his blinded ones concerning the church people, so called: "Look at them. They go to church and sing and pray on Sunday, and the rest of the week they come to us in order to be happy. I'll do better for you than their God. Come my way all the time. Let us eat and drink and be merry, for there is no lake of fire nor place of torment. No men of learning believe the Bible any more, and Jesus was only a good man who did wondrously while he lived, but He is gone, and there are no more like Him."

Does this sound familiar? Is it all about you? Do you hear it on every side? Then let it be a proof to you that the whole world lieth in the wicked one, the father of lies, a murderer from the beginning, for whom the everlasting fire has been prepared, and turn from him and all his lies to Him who gave Himself, for our sins that He might deliver us from the wrath to come and from this present evil age (I Thess. i, 10; Gal. i, 4), and if you do not see many lives that commend Him to others let yours be one by His grace that shall tell for Him every day and everywhere, a life that even in eating and drinking as well as in all other things shall glorify God (verse 31) and adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour (Tit. ii, 10).

The phrase "giving none offense" in verse 32 takes us to 11 Cor. vi, 3, "giving no offense in anything that the ministry be not blamed," and back to Rom. xiv, 13, "Let us not, therefore, judge one another any more, but judge this rather that no man put a stumbling block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way." People are either being pointed heavenward or stumbling headlong by our everyday life. Let us from this time live wholly unto the Lord. Dispensational truth is most helpful in this matter and is suggested by verse 32, which reminds us that now, in this age, the church of God is being gathered from Jews and gentiles, and to this end we should live the life of which we have been speaking; then at the beginning of the next age all Israel shall be saved and then all the nations.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week
Beginning Sept. 26, 1909.
By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—How missionaries win souls for Jesus Christ.—1 Cor. ix, 2-3.

The methods of winning souls for Christ are practically the same the world over. The sinner must be led to see his sinfulness, and in Christ the power to save him, and to accept Christ as his atoning Saviour. But when it comes to the methods of bringing about these results in the minds and hearts of men, the work of the missionary is vastly different from that of those who labor among people to whom the gospel has been known from childhood. Missionaries to foreign fields especially must work along different lines. They are dealing with a strange people. To these people Christ and his teachings are unknown. Their faith has been placed in other religions. Their methods of thinking and of living are vastly different, as well as their daily habits and customs. The effort to save men under these circumstances must necessarily be different from those used at home.

Paul, the greatest of all missionaries, realized the problem and solved it. The ways suggested in this passage to the Corinthians, properly understood, cover the entire ground. Indeed one sentence does it—"all things to all men, that I might by all means save some." Involved in the principle here set forth are suggested the requirements of missionaries for saving souls for Christ.

1. Missionaries need intelligence to win souls for Christ. Paul was a man of marked intellectual ability and finely educated. He had the finest scholastic training that the Jews could give. He was familiar with Greek philosophy and poetry, of Rome and Roman customs, he also had considerable knowledge. He therefore could meet with success the philosophy of Greece, the paganism of Rome and the unbelief of his fellow countrymen, the Jews. The people of other nations are not lacking in mental capacity. The religious leaders are shrewd in argumentation. Many of them are keen sophists and cannot be successfully reached with Christianity unless the missionaries be unusually equipped, mentally as well as spiritually for their work. The church today as never before is sending its brightest and best educated men and women as missionaries, which is the proper thing to do.

2. Missionaries need adaptation to win souls for Christ. Paul possessed this power. To the Jew he became as a Jew, to the Greeks as a Greek, etc. Missionaries as far as possible should adapt themselves to the people among whom they labor. Be as much like them and live as much like them as can be done. The missionary among the miners, who dressed as they did, and went down into the mines as they did, had no difficulty in winning them for Christ. Had he remained above ground, clothed himself in clerical garb and erected a regular church building he would have had but few to hear his message. But becoming one of them that he might save some, they were glad to hear and to accept his message.

An Up-to-Date Druggist

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go on to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price. For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

E. A. Gould, the newly appointed general manager of the C. H. & D. is getting fairly well settled in his position. In convention with a Cincinnati newspaperman yesterday he said that he was getting hold of the details of the operating department and was glad to be able to state that he found matters in good condition and soon expected to have everything running smoothly. When asked if he expected to make many changes, and told that he had been intimidated by some that he would probably wish to surround himself with men whom he knew, he said: "When I went to the Missouri Pacific I had been with the Wabash for thirteen years, but I never employed a man who had worked on the Wabash so far as I know, until I had been with the Missouri Pacific, for some time, and then I employed one man who had formerly been with me, but was then out of a job, and for whom I had an opening. When I came here I did not bring even a secretary with me. Every man in my department can rely on holding his job, if he is up to his work and does it. Ability and desire to perform the duties required of him by his position are the things that will determine whether or not a man will keep his place, and nothing else will enter into the determination of the matter."

bird only the other day. They all say I'm nothing but a damned tramp. You say I have done you service—give me a show."

Whispering Smith stopped a minute in the shadow of a tree and looked keenly at him. "I'm too busy to-night to say much, Wickwire," he said, after a moment. "You go over to the barn and report to Bob Scott. If you want to take the chances, it is up to you; and if Bob Scott is agreeable, I'll use you where I can—that's all I can promise. You will probably have more than one chance to get killed."

CHAPTER XXXV.

Among the Coyotes.

Oroville once marked farthest north for the Peace river gold camps, but with mining long ago abandoned it now marks furthest south for a rustlers' camp, being a favorite resort for the people of the Williams Cache country. Oroville boasts that it has never surrendered and that it has never been cleaned out. It has moved, and been moved, up stream and down, and from bank to bank; it has been burned out and blown away and lived on wheels; but it has never suffered the loss of its identity.

Whispering Smith, well dusted with alkali, rode up to the Johnson ranch, eight miles southwest of Oroville, in the afternoon of the day after he left Medicine Bend. The ranch lies in a valley watered by the Rainbow, and makes a pretty little oasis of green in a limitless waste of sagebrush. Gene and Bob Johnson were cutting alfalfa when Whispering Smith rode into the field, and, stopping the mowers, the three men talked while the seven horses nibbled the clover.

"I may need a little help, Gene, to get him out of town," remarked Smith, after he had told his story; "that is, if there are too many Cache men there for me."

Bob Johnson was stripping a stalk of alfalfa in his fingers. "Them fellows are pretty sore."

"That comes of half doing a job, Bob. I was in too much of a hurry with the round-up. They haven't had dose enough yet," returned Whispering Smith. "If you and Gene will join me sometime when I have a week to spare, we will go in there, clean up the gang and burn the hair off the roots of the chapparal—what? I've hinted to Rebstock he could get ready for something like that."

"Tell us about that fight, Gordon."

"I will if you will give me something to eat and have this horse taken care of. Then, Bob, I want you to ride into Oroville and reconnoiter. This is mail day and I understand some of the boys are buying postage stamps to put on my coffin."

They went to the house, where Whispering Smith talked as he ate. Bob took a horse and rode away, and Gene, with his guest, went back to the alfalfa, where Smith took Bob's place on the mower. When they saw Bob riding up the valley, Whispering Smith, bringing in the machine, mounted his horse.

"Your man is there all right," said Bob, as he approached. "He and John Rebstock were in the Blackbird saloon. Seagru is'n't there, but Barney Rebstock and a lot of others are. I talked a few minutes with John and Murray. Sinclair didn't say much; only that the railroad gang was trying to run him out of the country, and he wanted to meet a few of them before he went. I just imagined he held up a little before me; maybe not. There's a dozen Williams Cache men in town."

"But those fellows are not really dangerous, Bob, though they may be troublesome," observed Smith, reflectively.

"Well, what's your plan?" blurted Gene Johnson.

"I haven't any, Gene," returned Smith, with perfect simplicity. "My only plan is to ride into town and serve my papers, if I can. I've got a deputyship—and that I'm going to do right away. If you, Bob, or both of you, will happen in about 30 minutes later you'll get the news and perhaps see the fun. Much obliged for your feed, Gene; come down to Medicine Bend any time and I'll fill you up. I want you both for the elk hunt next fall, remember that. Bucks is coming, and is going to bring Brown and Henson and perhaps Atterbury and Gibbs and some New Yorkers; and McCloud's brother, the preacher, is coming out and they are all right—all of them."

The only street in Oroville faces the river, and the buildings string for two or three blocks along modest bluffs. Not a soul was anywhere in sight when Whispering Smith rode into town, save that across the street from where he dismounted and tied his horse three men stood in front of the Blackbird.

They watched the new arrival with languid interest. Smith walked stiffly over toward the saloon to size up the men before he should enter it. The middle man of the group, with a thin red face and very blue eyes, was chewing tobacco in an unpromising way.

Before Smith was half-way across the street he saw the hands of the three men falling to their hips. Taking care, however, only to keep the men between him and the saloon door, Smith walked directly toward them. "Boys, have you happened to see Gene or Bob Johnson to-day, any of you?" He threw back the brim of his stetson as he spoke.

"Hold your hand right there—right where it is," said the blue-eyed man sharply.

Whispering Smith smiled, but held his hand rather awkwardly upon his hat-brim.

"No," continued the spokesman, "we ain't none of us happened to see Bob or Gene Johnson to-day; but we happen to see Whispering Smith, and we'll blow your face off if you ain't an inch."

Smith laughed. "I never quarrel with a man that's got the drop on me, boys. Now, this is sudden but unexpected. Do I know any of you?" He looked from one face to another before him with a wide reach in his field of vision for the three hands that were fast on three pistol-butts. "Hold on! I've met you somewhere," he said with easy confidence to the blue-eyed man with the weather-split lip. "Williams Cache, wasn't it? All right, we're placed. Now what have you got in for me?"

"I've got 40 head of steers in for you," answered the man in the middle, with a splitting oath. "You stole 40 head of my steers in that round-up, and I'm going to fill you so full of lead you'll never run off no more stock for nobody. Don't look over there to your horse or your rifle. Hold your hands right where they are."

"Certainly, certainly!"

"When I pull, I shoot!"

"I don't always do it, but it is business, I acknowledge. When a man pulls he ought to shoot—very often it's the only chance he ever gets to shoot. Well, it isn't every man gets the drop on me that easy, but you boys have got it," continued Whispering Smith in frank admiration. "Only I want to say you're after the wrong man. That round-up was all Rebstock's fault, and Rebstock is bound to make good all loss and damage."

"You'll make good my share of it right now and here," said the man with the wash-blue eyes.

"Why, of course," assented Whispering Smith, "if I must, I must. I suppose I may light a cigarette, boys, before you turn loose the fireworks?"

"Light it quick!"

Laughing at the humor of the situation, Whispering Smith, his eyes beaming with good nature, put the finger and thumb of his right hand into his waistcoat pocket, drew out a package of cigarette paper, and, bantering his captors innocently the while, tore out a sheet and put the packet back. Holding the paper in his two hands, he declared he believed his

Going Like Tickets At A County Fair

Going Like Tickets at County Fair. Much Talk is Being Created by The Great Good it is Doing.

So much talk is being created by the great good Root Juice is doing at this point that some people think it is good for every ailment. The scientist said: Root Juice is not a cure all. There are many troubles it will not benefit. It will not cure organic heart and lung troubles, cancer and other incurable maladies, but if it is used for any trouble of the stomach, bowels, liver or kidneys that can be cured with medicine. I believe Root Juice will remove obstructions and give nature a chance to restore health. The combination of roots and other ingredients in Root Juice has a remarkable soothing, healing and tonic action on the stomach, bowels, bladder, liver and kidneys."

Numbers of local people have called at Wolcott's drug store and reported rapid improvement under the Root Juice treatment. A lady who for various reasons does not wish her name published, said: "I was so bad before taking Root Juice with my kidneys and stomach, that I could not straighten up for stooping without sharp pains shooting thru my back; had dizzy spells, and was very nervous. My eyesight was badly affected. Kidney secretions were very frequent at night. My hands and feet were cold, the circulation was very poor. When I got up of mornings, I was just as tired as when I went to bed. At times there was a feeling in my stomach like I had swallowed rocks. I often had severe pains in my side and had frequent headaches. I was very fallow with dark rings under my eyes. I tried many medicines without benefit, but Root Juice is making a new woman of me. My complexion is clearing up. I have a good appetite and digest my food, my kidneys no longer give me trouble and I am entirely free from pain, although I have only used the great remedy a short while."

Such praise is now being heard every day at Wolcott's drug store. The juice is one dollar a bottle or three bottles two dollars and a half.

tobacco was in his saddle-pocket, and asked leave to step across the street to get it. The trick was too transparent, and leave was refused with scorn and some hard words. Whispering Smith begged the men in front of him in turn for tobacco. They cursed him and shook their heads.

For an instant he looked troubled. Still appealing to them with his eyes, he tapped lightly the lower outside pockets of his coat with his fingers, shifting the cigarette paper from hand to hand as he hunted. The outside pockets seemed empty. But as he tapped the inside breast pocket on the left side of the coat—the three men, lynx-eyed, watching—his face bright-coat to take the tobacco out of the breast pocket. An excuse to take that lapel in his left hand was, in fact, all that Whispering Smith needed to put not alone the three men before him but all Oroville at his mercy. The play of his right hand in crossing the corduroy waistcoat to pull his revolver from its scabbard and throw it into their faces was all too quick for better eyes than theirs. They saw only the muzzle of the heavy Colt's playing like a snake's tongue under their surprised noses, with the good-natured smile still behind it. "Or will one of you roll a cigarette?" asked Whispering Smith, without a break between the two questions. "I don't smoke. Now don't make faces; go right ahead. Do anything you want to with your hands. I wouldn't ask a man to keep his hands or feet still on a hot day like this," he insisted, the revolver playing all the time. "You won't draw? You won't fight? Pshaw! Then disengage your hands gently from your guns. You fellows really ought not to attempt to pull a gun in Oroville, and I will tell you why—there's a reason for it." He looked confidential as he put his head forward to whisper among the crest-fallen faces. "At this altitude it is too fast work. I know you now," he went on as they continued to wilt. "You are Fatty Filber," he said to the thin chap. "Don't work your mouth like that at me; don't do it. You seem surprised. Really, have you the asthma? Get over it, because you are wanted in Pound county for horse-stealing. Why, hang it, Fatty, you're good for ten years, and of course, since you have reminded me of it, I'll see that you get it. And you, Baxter," said he to the man on the right, "I know I spoke to you once when I was inspector about altering brands; that's five years, you know. You," he added, scrutinizing the third man to scare him to death—"I think you were at Tower W. No? No matter; you two boys may go, anyway. Fatty, you stay; we'll put some state cow on your ribs. By the way, are you a detective, Fatty? Aren't you? See here! I can get you into an association. For ten dollars, they give you a German-silver star, and teach the Japanese method of pulling, by correspondence. Or you might get an electric battery to handle your gun with. You can get pocket dynamo from the mail-order houses. Sure! Read the big book!"

When Gene and Bob Johnson rode into town, Whispering Smith was sitting in a chair outside the Blackbird, still chatting with Filber, who stood with his arms around a hitching-post, holding fast a mail-order house catalogue. A modest crowd of hangers-on had gathered.

"Here we are, Gene," exclaimed Smith to the deputy sheriff. "I was looking for steers, but some calves got into the drive. Take him away."

While the Johnsons were laughing, Smith walked into the Blackbird. He had lost 30 minutes, and in losing them had lost his quarry. Sinclair had disappeared, and Whispering Smith made a virtue of necessity by taking the upsetting of his plans with an unruffled face. There was but one thing more, indeed, to do, and that was to eat his supper and ride away. The street encounter had made so much talk in Oroville that Smith declined Gene Johnson's invitation to go back to the house. It seemed a convenient time to let any other ambitious rustlers make good if they were disposed to try, and Whispering Smith went for his supper to the hotel where the Williams Cache men made their headquarters.

When he rode away in the dusk his face was careworn. John Rebstock had told him why Sinclair dodged; there were others whom Sinclair wanted to meet first; and Whispering Smith was again heading on a long, hard ride, and after a man on a better horse, back to the Crawling Stone and Medicine Bend. "There's others he wants to see first or you'd have no trouble in talking business to-day. You nor no other man will ever get him alive." But Whispering Smith knew that.

"See that he doesn't get you alive, Rebstock," was his parting retort. "If he finds out Kennedy has got the Tower W money, the first thing he does will be to put the Doxology all over you."

"See that he doesn't get you alive, Rebstock," was his parting retort. "If he finds out Kennedy has got the Tower W money, the first thing he does will be to put the Doxology all over you."

Mrs. William Trennepohl, 1016 W. COOK RECEIVES REAL OVATION

Banquet to Explorer a Distinguished Affair.

SCHLEY WAS TOASTMASTER

Old Admiral, Who Is Himself an Arctic Hero, Occupied Place at Right of Finder of the North Pole, the Danish Minister Occupying the Other Post of Honor—Dr. Cook Appealed to His Hearers to Accept His Narrative of His Journey to the Pole as He Has Seen Fit to Give It So Far.

New York, Sept. 24.—Before the most brilliant audience that he has addressed since he left the court of Denmark, cheered by a thousand men and women as he entered the banquet hall on the arm of Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, U. S. N., retired, Dr. Frederick A. Cook told his story last night. The banquet was given by the Arctic Club of America, of which Dr. Cook is a member, in recognition of his last polar venture, which culminated in his announcement that he had reached the north pole. While there was no official representative from either state or nation, the assemblage was cosmopolitan and enthusiastic. Crowded in the great ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, they toasted the Brooklyn explorer and listened attentively to his recital in the form of an after-dinner address.

Among those at the tables were explorers, some of whom knew the dangers and suffering of the Arctic zone almost as well as Dr. Cook himself. Men of science were there also, but the explorer addressed himself primarily to the great majority of his hearers, whose interest in polar conquest has but lately been aroused by the clamor of the world over the two reported achievements. The address was not technical. He expressed thanks for the honor accorded him, reviewed the history of man's endeavor to attain the pole, paid tribute to the loyalty of John R. Bradley, the man whose money enabled him to undertake the expedition; answered briefly a few charges that have been made against him, and reiterated that he unfurled the flag at the pole on April 21, 1908. Commander Peary's name he did not mention, except at the end of his speech, when he said: "There is glory enough for all." Then it was that Peary's name mingled with those of other explorers to whom he referred with reverence.

Dr. Cook appealed to his hearers to accept his narrative of his journey to the pole as he has seen fit to give it so far. "It is as complete as the preliminary reports of any previous explorer," he said. "Heretofore such evidence has been taken with faith and the complete record was not expected to appear for years."

Dr. Cook entered the hall at 8 o'clock on the arm of Rear Admiral Schley. He did not pause to greet old friends or to meet new ones, but walked directly to his seat while the guests cheered wildly. Their plaudits the explorer answered merely with a smile. He seated himself beneath the blue flag of the Arctic club, with Rear Admiral Schley on his right and Carl Moltke, the Danish minister, on the left. Admiral Schley occupied one seat of honor as toastmaster, president of the Arctic club, and himself an Arctic hero, having guided the relief expedition to the ill-fated Greeley party, while the Danish minister occupied the other in view of his nation's first recognition of the explorer.

Patrick S. McGowan, president of the board of aldermen, sat next to Admiral Schley, and in the chair at Mr. McGowan's right sat Bird S. Coler, president of the borough of Brooklyn, Dr. Cook's home town. Mrs. Cook did not attend the banquet proper, but occupied a balcony box during the latter part of the evening.

MAYBRAY'S GANG IS UNDER INDICTMENT

Eighty-Five Held to Answer At Council Bluffs.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Sept. 24.—Charged with conspiring to defraud by illegal use of the United States mails, J. C. Mabray and eighty-four alleged associates have been indicted by the United States grand jury for the southern district of Iowa. With the exception of Mabray and three or four others, none of those indicted are in custody, and for that reason the names of the defendants were not made public. It was stated, however, that the list includes many persons known in criminal annals in all parts of the country, and that nearly every name is followed by one to four aliases.

Although specific amounts are not mentioned in the indictment, it is authoritatively stated that the amounts lost by the alleged victims of Mabray and others named, will exceed half a million dollars. The sums lost run from $1,500 to $20,000, the latter sum having been placed on a fake horse race, according to the evidence at hand, by a Missouri banker. The list of the names of victims includes men of prominence in all parts of the country, and there is set forth in the specific charges a number of letters of an incriminating character which gives a touch of sensationalism to the document. Victims in eighteen states, the territory of Alaska and the Dominion of Canada are named, indicating the wide range over which Mabray and his associates are alleged to have piloted their vocation. As a basis of operation they used, according to the indictment, the cities of Council Bluffs,avenport and Burlington, Ia.; St. Louis.

Little Rock, Seattle, Denver and New Orleans, to which places it is alleged victims were taken by the numerous "steerers."

The indictment gives the names of eighty-five persons who are alleged to have been victims of Mabray and his associates.

COURT NOT TOLD OF COMPROMISE

Special Jurors Had Been Summoned in the Troy-Hazelwood Gas Company Case.

HERE ON A CHANGE OF VENUE

There was no trial of the Troy-Hazelwood Gas company case in circuit court today. Six special jurors had been summoned, but there was no trial. The fact of the matter is the case was compromised last Monday, but it seems there had been no official notice to the court. The case came to this county on a change of venue from Hancock county, and it was expected that it would be one of the most bitterly fought ones in the circuit court this term.

COMMISSIONERS TO FILL VACANCY

Will Elect Successor to Late George H. Caldwell, County Treasurer, in Few Days.

CONSIDERATION FOR WIDOW

The vacancy in the county treasurer's office will be filled by the county commissioners at a special meeting to be held soon. Considerable speculation was heard today as to who the successor of the late George H. Caldwell would be. There is still about one year and three months of the term left and much favorable comment has been heard on a plan which was suggested this morning. It is to arrange for Mrs. Caldwell to take charge of the office with the assistance of the present deputy, Walter Newhouse. Several other names have been mentioned as probable successors to Mr. Caldwell.

Attention to Trustees

Governor Marshall will ask the new State Board of Accounts, which has charge of the enforcement of the public accounting law to issue a circular letter to the 1,016 township trustees of the State, setting forth that all bids, whether received before or after the notice is posted, must be considered in awarding township contracts. The Governor will also recommend that the bids be not destroyed, but kept on record for examination by the field examiners of the State Board of Accounts. The board itself has been considering for some time the issuance of such a letter.

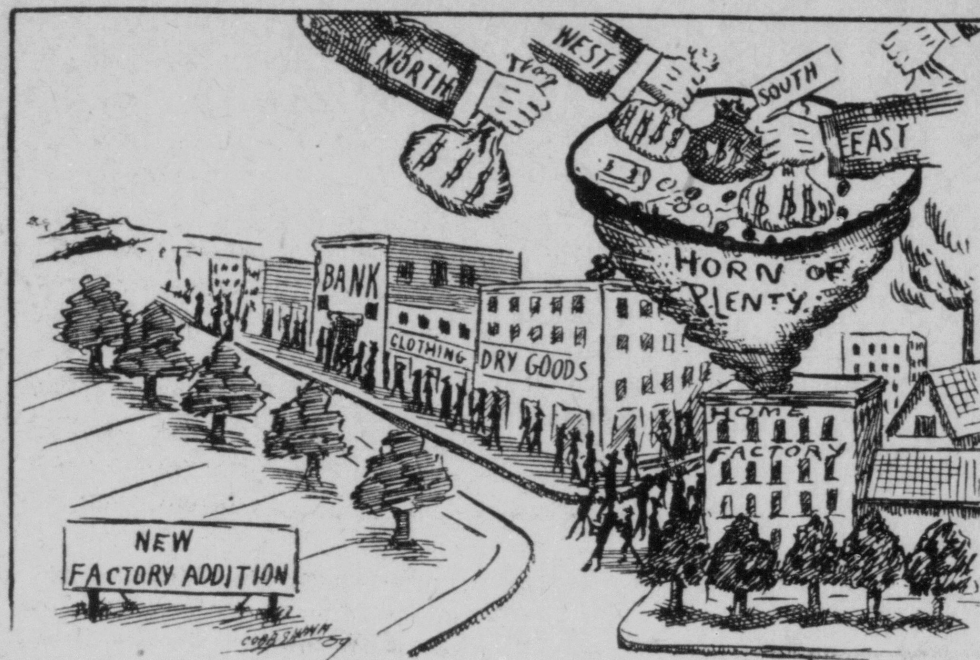

The proposed recommendations are the outgrowth of a discovery that trustees in some instances have been regarding bids of firms which bid in regular form, but who submitted proposals before the usual notice of receiving bids was posted. It was found that these bids were sometimes lower than those for which contracts were let. All the bids received by township trustees will be looked into by the field examiners appointed by the board after the examination of applicants to be held at the State House soon.

The fellows who were afraid that factories might bring an undesirable element into that community have found that the factories brought a very desirable element.

Nearly all the manufacturers of Rushville are expressing themselves favorably upon the movement and are preparing exhibits for the headquarters room. The exhibits will be well taken care of, and will be protected from damage.

HAY FEVER PATIENTS HAPPY

Frost last night nipped the more tender vegetation, but it is thought that no serious damage was done to crops as the corn is beyond the danger line, at least from anything but an unusually heavy frost. It was chilly last night, bordering on cold, in fact, and some overcoats were brought into use. Hay fever patients were happy and as far as they are personally concerned care not how soon it freezes.

Greensburg News: It snowed at seven o'clock yesterday morning. The beautiful at least was noticed by one resident. The mere presence of the snow, however, is a shiver producer, and makes one begin to think seriously what they have been doing with their summer wages. 'Twill not be long, however, until the winter will be here and the snow will be sent to the bosom of mother earth in such quantities that all will see it.

geant Caldwell was promoted to his position.

The company returned to this city and disbanded. It was not long after this that the trouble in the Philippines broke out and Mr. Caldwell promptly enlisted in the service for the second time. On account of excellent service while in the Spanish-American war, he was appointed 1st lieutenant of a company in the 161st regiment U. S. Volunteers, and acted in that capacity during the whole campaign.

Upon his return from the Philippines he came to this city and did not engage in any business for a time. In a few months he entered the firm of Fred Caldwell, undertaker, which was then known as Caldwell and Caldwell. He was engaged in this business until he was elected county treasurer in the fall of 1906. He was re-elected to the office in the fall of 1908.
